A PORTSMOUTH BRANCH OF ANTI-SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

Formed Here to Oppose the Further
Extension of Suffrage to Women.

A Portsmouth branch of the New Hampshire Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women, was organized at a meeting of those interested at the home of Mrs. Wallis D. Walker on State street Friday forenoon. The association is to be patterned after the already flourishing Massachusetts association and several other branches are to be organized through the state.

At the meeting on Friday forenoon Mrs. Barrett Wendell of Cambridge and this city, an active member of the Massachusetts association presided and at the request of the ladies, agreed to act as chairman for the time being. The organization was perfected with the following officers:

President, Mrs. Barrett Wendell.
Recording Secretary, Mrs. John W. Kelley.
Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Wallis D. Walker.
Treasurer, Miss Marion Hackett.

It was voted to meet at the home of the corresponding secretary on the first Tuesday of each month at 10.30 a. m., and the membership which is already quite large, is expected to be materially increased before the next meeting.

An advisory committee of gentlemen will be elected at the next meeting and plans were discussed for some active work to be done this spring.

Among the ladies present were: Mrs. Wallace Hackett, Mrs. P. W. Hartford, Mrs. H. C. Taylor, Mrs. C. A. Hazlett, Mrs. E. Lawrence White, Mrs. F. M. Sise, Mrs. J. B. Pickering, Mrs. H. P. Montgomery, Mrs. H. B. Boynton, Mrs. M. C. Foye, Mrs. J. W. Kelley, Mrs. James R. May, Mrs. W. D. Walker, Mrs. Barrett Wendell.

LEADING REPUBLICANS SOON TO MEET AND DISCUSS SITUATION

Anything But Harmony
Said to Prevail Among the Bass Followers.

(Special to The Herald)
Concord, Feb. 24.—Leading republicans from all parts of New Hampshire are to hold a mass meeting here within the next ten days when matters of importance to the party will be discussed. The insurgent wing of the party, composed of the followers of Gov. Robert Perkins Bass, are said to be in rather a compromising position at the present time. It has been given out that no member of that wing was in anyway identified with any railroad. On his return from Chicago, Governor Bass found that nearly everyone of his followers had signed the petition of the Grand Trunk railroad for permission to enter this state. It is stated that so incensed was the governor over their action that he has remanded Chairman Clough's resignation. Fresh reports of strife in the insurgents' camp appear almost daily and indicate that there is anything but harmony.

SMUGGLING CHARGED

Federal Detective S. W. Day came here on Friday from Nashua to lay before the collector of port, the result of his investigation following the arrest in Langdon, N. H., of Edward MacIntosh, who was indicted for smuggling by the Federal grand jury at Utica, N. Y. The indictment which was obtained last month, alleges the fraudulent importing of three horses, a buggy and a single harness. MacIntosh waived rights, and was taken to Utica on Friday, by Asst. United States Marshal Fred P. Johnson and Deputy Charles Rowe.

IN NEW QUARTERS

The latest report has it that the Western Union Telegraph company will later occupy the room in the exchange block on Pleasant street as soon as the same is vacated by the Portsmouth Trust company. It is understood that in connection with this move the clerical force of the telephone company will also be transferred from the Central office on Vaughan street to the Pleasant street office and the room now occupied by the telephone company as a business office will be utilized for the extension of the operating system.

An Interesting Trip Around the World

Mr. B. Frank Gardner of this City Tells of a Most Delightful Three Months' Tour on the Steamer Cleveland, and Describes the Places Visited

I left home the 18th of October, 1911 for New York via N. Y., N. H., thick and a heavy mist prevailed; arrived there at 4 p. m., took the ferry across the river to Hoboken and found the Meyer hotel. This hotel is managed by German people, and the moment I arrived I felt very much at home. A great many of the tourists stay here because it is very near the Hamburg Piers, and, together with being near the piers, it is first class in every respect.

After dinner I started down town to find the Elks' Home, which lovely place I had no trouble in locating, and was soon being pleasantly entertained. They extended to me the freedom they themselves enjoyed, and I began to feel that my "Trip Around the World" was starting in very pleasantly.

This lodge has a membership of 1300. The Elks' Home in Hoboken is something grand. Their building, which has just been completed, is certainly very interesting to look over. The Hoboken Elks will always have a large place in my heart.

Thursday, October 19, 1911.

This day was spent waiting around the piers, watching for my baggage, which was gladly received late in the afternoon. I immediately had it rechecked aboard the ship and saw it landed in my stateroom. I then took a good long breath and felt comfortable.

Friday, October 20, 1911.

One of the good fellows of the lodge in Hoboken, Mr. Hart, came early to the hotel and invited me to go over the city and take in the sights. I accepted the invitation and we were soon on our way, via trolley.

The first place we visited was the Stock Exchange on Wall street. I had been here some years before, and I again found the same noise and confusion. From here we went to the Aquarium and saw nearly every specimen of the finny tribe. It was very interesting to me.

We then went to the Elks' Home, West 43d Street, and had lunch. This is considered the finest Elks' Home in the world. I may as well stop right here and say that I cannot handle the English language well enough to describe it. From there we took in the Hippodrome, "The Trip Around the World." The building itself covers an immense space. It is provided with quarters for the elephants, camels, oxen, and horses, besides sheep and other animals, with room, also for chariots and all kinds of vehicles that are used in other countries, making it altogether one immense building and show.

The building itself has a seating capacity of 5,500 people. Next we visited the "Electrical exhibit," which was also very interesting. Then back to the Elks' Home for dinner, after which we boarded a car for the tube and onward to Hoboken. Here we met at the hotel, many who were going to make the cruise with me, all anxiously waiting for their baggage to show up.

It was then 8 o'clock, and as there was to be a meeting at the Elks' lodge at Hoboken, I took it to them. They certainly made my visit very agreeable, and, as they left the home one after the other, they would come and shake hands with me, and all wished me a pleasant voyage, and be sure when I returned not to fail to come to Hoboken and tell them all about my trip.

SATURDAY, October 21, 1911.

This is the day that the great and good ship "Cleveland" starts on her long voyage "Around the World." Everybody that intends making this cruise is anxious to get on board. The same good Elks that I have before mentioned came down to see me off, and it caused a tear to drop from my eyes to think that even I should have such a dear friend that would take all that pains to come and say "Good-bye" to me. I shall never forget that. No one can imagine what it meant to me.

Now here we are on board ship, and such a mob! No one knows who is who, some are laughing, some are crying, everybody seems to be excited. Now then, blows the first whistle. Then they begin to shout upon it. The streets are very clean, "All ashore that's going ashore." Finally the last whistle blows. Then the gangway is taken in, lines cast off, and the big ocean monster drops down the river.

In about a half hour we passed the Statue of Liberty. It was very ing through the Mediterranean to Villa Franche which will be our next stop.

Thursday, November 2, 1911

A lovely day, smooth sea, in sight of land all day, we were now on the French coast. Arrived in the Harbor of Villa Franche at 4 p. m., went ashore at 6, boarded the train for Monte Carlo, got into the latter place at 7, went to the Savoy hotel and had dinner. After this we visited the greatest gambling house in the world. Here are seated at each table about forty men and women with the roulette wheel in the center. Sometimes they win, more times they lose. One lady, who had evidently been playing sometime had a bag full of gold. It was said by someone who pretended to know, that she had won several thousand dollars, anyhow she got up and walked out of the hall as though she had been stopping, and just as much unconcerned.

This place is owned by the Prince of Monaco. His yearly income from the building in which they gamble is 225,000 francs. No man living can describe this lovely paradise. One must see it for himself. The buildings are wonderful in architecture, the parks filled with palm, palmetto, sago, magnolia, and flowers of almost every variety, the very atmosphere being laden with fragrance, making it altogether something, as I have said, too great to describe.

We came back to the ship in the night, got back to Villa Franche about one o'clock. The next morning we went to Nice by trolley. We were at this place about three hours. Nice is a famous winter resort, said to be very good for invalids, many of whom come here to regain their health. The fifteenth of November is the date set for the hotel to open. It is a beautiful city of about 150,000 people. The buildings are of marble and stone, and the streets shaded with trees, making its business section very attractive.

The residence portion is built of high terraces of stone laid in cement, as a sort of bulk head or bank wall. On the lawns and gardens are palm, palmetto and orange trees, cactus and flowers of almost every kind.

Friday, November 3, 1911.

We left the harbor of Villa Franche at 11 a. m. for Port Said. Sighted steamers and passed the Island of Corsica in the afternoon. Nothing happened today worthy of note.

Saturday, November 4, 1911.

The weather still continued fine. Passed the Volcano of Stromboli at 4 p. m. At 8 p. m. we passed through the straits of Messina, which are a wonderful sight. Messina on the Sicily side all lighted with electric lights, and Rizzio on the Italy side. Both countries are mountainous and the effect the lights produced, was very fine. Mt. Etna is on the Sicily side but too far away to be seen.

Sunday, November 5, 1911.

A charming day, smooth sea. Services were held as usual. Most everybody is thinking of getting their money changed at the ship's office to use in Egypt. The land here seems wonderfully productive and practically inexhaustible. Cotton (very short staple) and large stalk corn sugar cane and all kinds of vegetables were mostly seen. Many large patches of cabbage, tomatoes and such things were noted. Tomatoes were being gathered and packed in wooden crates to be taken by camel train to Cairo. These people get from 5 to 7 crops from their very black land.

Monday, November 6, 1911.

Today was the first rain we have had since leaving New York but it soon cleared away and we are again in fine weather. Thursday, November 9, 1911. Arrived at Port Said, where we were most cordially received by the Begging Element, calling on us for "Bakshees." They mean by that they want money. Some of them are crippled, some are covered with sores, some have no arms, some no legs, but we finally got away from them and boarded the train for Cairo, which city we reached at 6 o'clock. Here we were met at the depot by members of the Tourist staff and driven to the Continental hotel.

The next day we were driven to points of interest around the city, some of which we will describe later. The next day we were driven to the Pyramids, which are ten miles from the city. After this we returned to the hotel. In the afternoon we visited the Museum, the Aquarium and the Bazaar. Which were both interesting and instructive.

The streets are very narrow, the houses are very close together, and the streets are very dirty. The people are very poor, and the food is very bad. The climate is very hot, and the air is very thick. The people are very ignorant, and the government is very corrupt.

charge in proportion to class. answer in good clear English, directed the streets always are full of the people whose costumes showed to the many constantly varying their country. All languages are spoken. One merchant told us that way. Only a few times were my he spoke eleven languages, but even questions answered by "No speak to pass another."

I will describe the city of Cairo, its suburbs, and the things that I saw there. The olden Cairo was of about the 640 period and the new and actively up to date Cairo is so large as to impress one as having fully one million inhabitants. They are Arabs, Soudan, Africans, Jews, Turks, Barbarians, Nubians, Abyssinians, Greeks, German, English, Russians, Poles and others, besides the native Egyptians, who still largely retain brains and abilities of their historical forefathers.

The mosques and temples are numerous and very attractive architecturally, and instructive from an interior point of view.

The old University at El Azhar was begun about 975 and accommodates about 10,000 students. When we visited it there were about 4500 men and boys gathered from all over Egypt to be instructed in the Koran, and who, on returning home were to teach their neighbors. They sat squatted, and lay on the stone flagging (where many also sleep) and learn their lessons like school boys in the old time country school house.

Many sat and swayed their bodies to and fro, all so deeply intent on their books that, although our large party stepped around and over them, yet they paid no attention to our intrusion. When we entered the Mosque, we had to accept large leather covers to be worn over our shoes and tied on securely so as not to profane the Sacred place.

The people generally have serious eye diseases, many were blind caused largely by venereal diseases, but aggravated by the sun, and also the frequent sand storms. They are cruel to each other, and to the dumb beasts, and they are exceedingly filthy in personal habits.

The methods of irrigation are about the same as for thousands of years past. The same old wooden plow drawn by two oxen was to be seen all through the cultivated region. Donkeys and camels are still used to carry people, as well as burdens. Many of our party went the day's journey from the large Pyramid Gheish along the line of pyramids to the site of the ancient city of Memphis. Pyramid Gheish is 450 feet in height and 750 feet at its base. The Sphinx is some over one hundred feet in height.

We passed the tombs including those built by Ramesis II for the Sacred Bull. The stone from Masara Quarries were largely used in building the pyramids and the walls of their tombs. The tomb itself was generally of granite something similar to our Scotch granite and highly polished. The usual pictorial tablets line the walls of these tombs, and continue to unfold their tale to Wondering Wanderers.

The site of ancient Memphis was marked by an enormous grove of large and tall palm date trees, large 40ft. statues of both the king and the queen, each carved out of one stone, and still in fine state of preservation. Originally they were used as decorative tablets at the entrance to one of the temples built by Ramesis II.

The land here seems wonderfully productive and practically inexhaustible. Cotton (very short staple) and large stalk corn sugar cane and all kinds of vegetables were mostly seen. Many large patches of cabbage, tomatoes and such things were noted. Tomatoes were being gathered and packed in wooden crates to be taken by camel train to Cairo. These people get from 5 to 7 crops from their very black land.

It is necessarily a very poor country as the ratio of interest is so high, 10 to 25 per cent being charged, and Egypt pays an annual fee to both Turkey and England. The latter polices the land. And we saw company after company of bright fire English soldier-boys who looked equal to any emergency. Cairo gets its water from the Nile and, when filtered, is clear, sparkling and seemingly pure, and generally used, except by tourists. The trolley cars go all over Cairo and to the adjoining village and also to the Gheish pyramids. They have look notice of the long line of few antiquated cars divided into first, second and third class compartments. Very rarely if occurred that an

More carriages of both two and four passenger capacity and drawn by two horses, are seen on the streets of Cairo than in any city I have ever seen. The drivers all wear the red fez for head coverings, baggy trousers, and long, flowing loose coats.

One of our drivers was a Mohammedan with three wives who had fifteen acres of land near the city which he said was worth $1,000. Friday, November 10, 1911. We left Cairo for Suez at 8:45 a. m., arrived in the latter place at noon. This was a long, hot journey. For miles and miles we rode across the great Egyptian desert, looking as far as the eye could reach and nothing but sand and hills in the far distance—visible.

We were all glad to get to our ship, which seemed like home to us all. The stewards and all the officers were all clad in white linen and lunch was all ready for us, and everybody seemed to appreciate the high class of food that the ship had furnished us.

About 3 p. m., we steamed out of Suez. Glad to get away from Egypt with its squalor, its filth, its flies and its beggars.

Soon we passed the place where Moses led the Children of Israel "dry land" through the Red Sea, along we went through smooth seas, clear weather, and delightful breezes. Late that night we passed to Mt. Sinai, although it was moonlight and it was too far away to be plainly seen.

Here, on either side, were Arabia and Africa, countries so full of general interest. We saw many islands in the Red Sea. Some of them evidently were of volcanic origin, and then, finally came to view the twelve small islands called the "Twelve Apostles." And on we went through the Gulf of Aden into the Arabian Sea.

We sighted a number of whales and many schools of porpoises. We saw flying fish, and some one said that they had seen a shark but I didn't so I will only state what I did see.

I forgot to mention that, in the Red Sea, although quite warm, our captain, who has been through it twenty-seven times, said it was the coolest passage he ever made, and for the past few days, still cooler weather has prevailed. Every day of our cruise has brought every delight possible. Weather conditions being absolutely perfect. The sunrise each morning was something grand, and the sunset sublime, needing a poet's pen and a painter's brush to be properly remembered. So many beautiful as well as wonderful things for us to see, appreciate and remember, all these along with all the comfort and luxuries that most have, how much we should appreciate our opportunities.

Sunday, November 18, 1911.

Arrived at Bombay, had good weather all the way through the Arabian sea, but it was awfully hot. We soon were on shore and registered at the Taj Mahal hotel. This is one of the finest buildings in India, and contains 500 rooms.

The next morning we were driven about the city to the different points of interest. We were much surprised to find Bombay so very modern and so clean. Expecting similar conditions to Cairo, we found the city, the streets, and the people very clean. Many of us were surprised at the very evident English atmosphere of Bombay, forgetting for the while that for more than 250 years England has controlled India, and that missionaries by the hundreds and dollars by the thousands, have been poured continuously into India for years, our own country doing nobly in the cause.

So we went along the broad, clean streets, free from dust, dirt and smell, and saw people of many castes and kinds, all clean personally, and so absorbed in their doings, and to the adjoining village and also to the Gheish pyramids. They have look notice of the long line of few antiquated cars divided into first, second and third class compartments. Very rarely if occurred that an piles of wood, and, afterward collect the ashes, which are then thrown into the sea.

The whole of India's people seem very industrious and very religious. We had expected more beggars and more of indolence and vice generally, and were thankful to find contrary conditions. The water works system is excellent and gives a good free supply of pure water. The electric lighting is very satisfactory and the streets are all kept clean and free from dust. The trolley cars run slowly and charge only one annis (Two cents) fare. The Conductor always giving a printed receipt.

We saw no drinking nor drunkenness or any form of gambling on the part of the natives. The railways are well managed. The cars are run smoothly and make good time. The streets and roads of Bombay are ideal for autos and the city seemed full of them. Many being of American make. We all greatly enjoyed Bombay and its people, and wished for more time to better understand the current affairs there.

However, we learned many valuable lessons in our few days spent so delightfully there. We left Bombay and our next stopping place was Colombo (Ceylon).

After a comparatively pleasant voyage through the Indian Ocean we reached this place and spent a delightful day there, driving over and around the city. Enjoying the waving hands and bright faces of swarms of children who seemed to belong along our way. Riding in Victorias carriages or rickshaws, we enjoyed the homes we saw on either side.

Like the Indian people these Ceylonese are small of stature but are fatter, as though better fed. In Colombo we found a great many gem merchants, as well as many jewellers. A great many of our people bought some of these wares. Many were glass from Paris. The gems of Ceylon produce many colors of sapphire and these, our Yankees bought both cut and uncut, set and unset.

Here I saw the most beautiful ruby I have ever seen. One thousand, five hundred dollars was its price, and its royal beauty was enhanced by a cluster of large, pure white diamonds. These lovely stones fairly intoxicated me, and made me wish I were a millionaire.

All the merchants in Colombo speak English. We had luncheon at the Galla Face Hotel after which we took carriages for the station to board the train for Mt. Lavinia, which place we reached a half hour later.

Here we spent the afternoon on the ocean front, in the shade of the Coconut palm, and other lovely shade trees about 4:30 we returned to Colombo and boarded a Tender for our floating home, the "Cleveland."

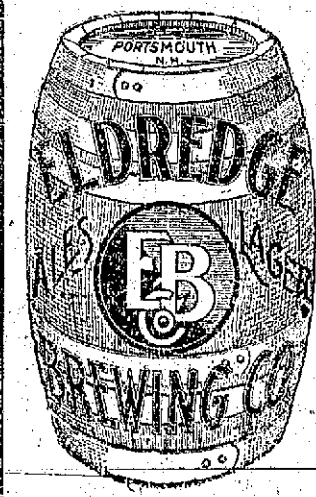

Monday, 27th found us bright and early, making ready for our mountain trip to Kandy, which was seventy eight miles distant. The scenery up the mountain was constantly changing; each curve of road showing new delights of green valleys and imposing mountains, winding brooks and large streams curling in and out.

The well kept vehicle road which closely followed our railway line, made me regret not having gone up to Kandy the previous afternoon over this trip in an automobile, which exposure to sun, air and rain.

TEN SOLDIERS TO ARREST ONE WOMAN AT LAWRENCE

Polish Woman Defends Her Right to Stand on Street and is Fined by the Court.

Lawrence, Feb. 23.—The police court had a stubborn case to deal with this morning. A Polish woman, Miss Josephine Liss, city today, for the first time in many weeks, the militia having been with drawn to the mill district. A force of eight hundred soldiers is still in known on the strike leaders, the city, however, ready to respond to any call from the city authorities, and Col. Sweetser, in command of the provisional regiment, said this morning that this force will be maintained here for the present, and only changes contemplated being the usual relief of one battalion by another.

The women strike pickets were very active again this morning, annoying many operatives on their way to work by their persistence in urging them to remain away from the mills. As they avoided threats and other unlawful means, there were no arrests during the early morning hours.

Approximately 500 more mill operatives are at work today than last Wednesday, the day before the holiday. A count at the gates places the increase at 300 in five mills. Good gains in operatives were reported at the Arlington and Pacific mills today and some increase was claimed by the American Woolen Company's mills.

not accept, and for a while she was just as insistent that she would not appeal the case, and "would just do nothing." Finally she consented to have an appeal entered.

The evidence against her was that she would not move in the street last Thursday when the soldiers told her to move. She defied them, telling them that she would move for nobody, that she had a right to stand where she wanted to stand. In court this morning she took the stand and declared that she felt then and still feels that she had a right to stand still.

Arguing the case briefly, Judge Advocate Campbell, on Colonel Sweetser's staff, said that the situation is concerned, is getting worse and worse. They know that the soldiers are more patient with them, and they are now being sent out to do picket duty while the men are staying at home. He said that while one soldier can handle ten men, it takes ten soldiers to handle one woman. This woman defendant may not be a picket, but she urges the pickets on and she wants to hear reports from them. An example should be made of her, so that the women will begin to realize that they must obey the law.

She was brought to the judge's bench and Judge Rowell tried to reason with her. "No, sir," she declared, "if you fine me you can send me to jail, I don't care. I have no money to pay this with. I am not going to pay. I don't care." Her father was sitting in the court room and was appealed to by the lawyers, but she waved him away. She would not accept anything. Newspaper men offered to pay her fine for her, the American Woolen Company's lawyer and the probation officer made the same offer, but she would

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elizabeth O. Bacon.

Mrs. Elizabeth O. Bacon, the widow of Mr. Eliza Bacon, died at her old home in Epping on Friday, at the age of 81 years. Funeral service at her late residence at Epping on Monday, Feb. 26, at 1.30 p. m. Mrs. Bacon is the last of the immediate family of the late Governor Plummer, and she has lived at the old mansion in Epping during the summer and has lived at the Rockingham Hotel in this city for the past twelve years, and she has a large circle of friends here.

Mrs. Lucinda Sheafe Lydston.

Mrs. Lucinda Sheafe Lydston, wife of Charles Lydston, died on Friday at her home on Bridge street, at the age of 58 years, 8 months. She leaves a husband, and two daughters and a son the latter being George Lydston of Newburyport.

Mr. Charles E. Boynton.

Mr. Charles Edward Boynton died on Friday evening shortly before midnight at his home on the corner of Miller and Lincoln avenue, after a long illness, age 76 years.

Mr. Boynton was one of the best known citizens of this city, and when in health it is doubtful if there was anybody who had more friends. He has been in ill health for the past ten years and been confined to his home almost all of that time, under the faithful and loving care of his daughter, Miss Blanche Boynton. Mr. Boynton founded the bottling works which today bears his name and he was a pioneer in that line in this city, and while in health he gave it his undivided attention, building up a business for honesty and integrity had few equals. A democrat in politics he always had the interest of the city at heart and while not very active in politics could always be relied upon. He leaves two daughters and two sons, Fred of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mr. Harry E. Boynton of this city, treasurer of the Portsmouth Savings Bank. The funeral announcement will be made later.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sufferer Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman. I know woman's sufferings. I have found the cure. I will mail, free of any charge, my book treatise with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's ailments. What women know best is what we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for leucorrhoea or white discharges, ulceration, displacement or falling of the womb, frigidity, scanty or painful periods, chronic or acute neuritis, or brain; she pains in head, back and limbs; bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, nervous kidneys, and bladder troubles which are caused by treatment peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, quickly, quietly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatise a complete trial, and if you will not interfere with your work or occupation, but send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your own entire free in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVICE" with complete illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to look for health. Then when the doctor says "You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old and young. To obtain my book, I will explain simple home treatments which are perfectly and effectually cures for leucorrhoea, Green Sticks and Pains, or Irregular Menstruation in young ladies, Pimples and health always results from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell you sufferer that this home treatment really cures all women's ailments, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write today, as you may not see this offer again. Address

BRO. JOHN IN THE GAME.

Announcement is made in the Chicago Evening American that "Brother John" F. Bass, brother of Go. Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire, has announced his candidacy as a Progressive Republican for the congressional nomination in the ninth Illinois district. The Bass family appear to have a residence in both Peterboro, New Hampshire and Chicago, Ill., and to be eligible to run for political offices in both states.—Laconia Democrat.

There is nothing further needed to eliminate Theodore Roosevelt from the presidential race. His speech at Columbus has certainly put on the finishing touch.

The Editorial paragraph of the Boston Globe says: Who was George Washington? And is it to be wondered at, that this same fellow is continually calling the Portsmouth navy yard, the Kittery yard.

Replying to President Taft, will say that New Hampshire will, at the proper time, enthusiastically manifest her appreciation of his kind and effectual efforts to behalf of the Portsmouth navy yard.—Manchester Union.

The annual joke about New Hampshire ice being expensive because it freezes so thick that it is difficult to harvest, has been verified this season, down near Portsmouth where a big milk concern which annually cuts and stores about four thousand tons of ice for its own use, taking the supply from a shallow pond, delayed the cutting of the ice until a short time ago and then discovered that the pond was frozen solid clear to the bottom over the greatest part of area.—Laconia Democrat.

It is interesting to note that potatoes that cost the Aroostook farmer twenty-seven cents to produce are now selling at retail in Boston for $1.60 a bushel. The farmer is receiving $1 a bushel at wholesale, a profit of 270 per cent. Many farmers are holding back from 5000 to 8000 bushel to force prices still higher. It is said that Aroostook county at the present time is one of the best markets for automobiles and pianos at the present time. No one will doubt the latter statement.

A new phase has developed in the woman's suffrage movement. Miss Fola La Follette, daughter of the Wisconsin senator, was married to George Middleton, the dramatic author in October last, but she still retains her maiden name. She addressed a woman's suffrage meeting in New York recently, and when asked why her maiden name appeared on the program explained as follows: "It was my desire to retain my own name," said she, "and Mr. Middleton generously consented to it. I believe woman who has done things should lose her personality when she marries. If she takes her husband's name, she to a certain extent loses the personality which her work has given to her. 'I think the time is coming,' said the pretty suffrage advocate, 'when all women will retain their own family names through matrimony. In the near future we shall regard it just as reasonable for a wife to ask her husband to take her family name as for a man to ask the woman he marries to adopt his name.' What's in a name anyway?"

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS.

Despite his ringing and protracted remarks that Col. Roosevelt's Columbus speech was simply a preface.

People who forget to get off the street cars on lines crossing the Mexican border are liable to find themselves in trouble. The question after all may resolve itself into one of transfers, to be taken up by a utilities commission.

If Mr. Loeb interests himself in a candidate, his supporters can rest assured that no tainted campaign contributions can be smuggled past him.

The sidestep as a military maneuver may become as conspicuous as the turkey trot in society.

It took an adjutant general to put a resignation rumor through in double time.

An exchange well says: "After all, principles and not men are of first importance."

Diaz evidently met with a streak of luck when he stepped out of the job of attempting to govern Mexico.

Mayor Gaynor is now talked of as a candidate for the presidency. His nomination would please Tammany and the Republicans.

The recuperative effect of freedom is one of the most wonderful things on earth. The case of Mr. Morse, recently of Atlanta, proves this.

If the women really did the proposing for a while, we have a feeling that the first would be last and the last would be first on our side of the fence.

Brandt may find, as the process of setting aside various incidents of his case goes on, that technically he never served any time in prison.

Colombia thinks that the Panama canal should not only be free to all ships, but that it should make neighboring donations of cash. That speech at Columbus was immediately followed by thunder and lightning in Washington.

Mexico is now engaged in wondering why it never wanted to get rid of Diaz.

People who forget to get off the street cars on lines crossing the Mexican border are liable to find themselves in trouble. The question after all may resolve itself into one of transfers, to be taken up by a utilities commission.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

"Direct Action."

In the newspaper reports of the St. Louis hearing at Lawrence the phrase "direct action" frequently occurs. That its exact meaning is not always apparent may be due to the fact that the phrase itself is so classed. In general "direct action" includes all forms of activity and all means to attain their ends by strikers and their sympathizers except political action through the ballot and through legitimate attempts to influence legislation.

Direct action may take the form of a strike, a boycott, of intimidation or sabotage or of violence. It is the method advocated by the so called "revolutionary syndicalists" in Southern European countries. It rejects political action as futile and as requiring too much time and patience. It attempts to go directly to its ends. All syndicalism, however, is not revolutionary. Many American syndicalists are merely believers in industrial unionism, as opposed to craft unionism.

Nor does "sabotage"—from the word meaning shoe or boot, and hence "giving the boot"—necessarily include violence or force. It may mean only the prevention of work, without involving the destruction of property. If for instance, work in a factory could not be resumed because a striker had locked the door and thrown away the key, that would be a case of "sabotage." On the other hand, the term is also applied to comparatively mild acts which cause financial loss to employers. But sabotage and violence are not synonymous.

The relations between capital and labor are continually enlarging our English vocabulary. "Boycott" is only about 30 years old, and within the past year or two we have become familiar with "sabotage," "syndicalism" and with the meaning of "direct action."—Boston Globe.

DUSTIN AND WILLIAM FARNUM "IN THE LITTLEST REBEL" AT THE BOSTON THEATRE.

"The Littlest Rebel" in which Dustin and William Farnum are appearing at the Boston Theatre is crowded with heart touching incidents and thrilling climaxes. The end of the first act witnesses the destruction by fire of a Southern mansion by Northern soldiers. This act of incendiarism is perpetrated by a drunken orderly who is promptly shot to death by a superior officer. Act the second closes with a striking picture of Dustin and William Farnum, in the roles of Northern and Southern officers, standing with hands clasped over a promise of the one not to betray the other while passing through his lines. The realistic and exciting battle scene occurs in Act three and constitutes the thrilling climax of the play, although the heart touching scene, when the littlest rebel comes before General Grant to plead for her father's life strikes a responsive chord in act four. In Dustin and William Farnum's support will be seen Miss Percy Haswell, who plays with exquisite charm the role of Captain Cary's wife, the typical woman of the South during the days of the Great Strife, the women whom the author characterizes as "the crutches on which the tottering cause of Dixie leans." A remarkable picture of General U. S. Grant, "the war machine," is contributed by John Ravold. Mr. Ravold requires two and one-half hours to "make-up" this character. When the curtain rises he stands with his back to the audience. Upon turning around the likeness to the illustrious patriot is so truthful that the actor never fails to receive a burst of applause. A humorous slave type is that of the old Darkey played by George Thatcher. Mr. Thatcher is well known as a creator of Negro characters and won his fame in the line along with Dockstader, Primrose and Fields. Theatregoers will never forget the dainty and captivating child study as exhibited by little Mary Miles Minter in the role of "Virgie." This clever little actress is the pivot on which the play turns and as General Grant remarks in the "last act. 'If you don't stop interfering with the routine of our Army and leading our officers away from their duty, I'll put you in the guard house. Whereupon Virgie bends her head sideways and looks up at him with so much childish supplication that he is forced to forget that he is the "iron man" and stoops to kiss her rosy lips.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The citizens of Portsmouth who are interested in the great progressive movements of the day, will be glad to know that The People's Forum, under the direction of the Universalist Church, presents unto them an opportunity to hear an instructive lecture on Equal Suffrage, in the Vestry of the church, on Sunday evening, February 25th, at 7.45 o'clock.

The lecture will be delivered by Mrs. Maud Wood Park, Executive Secretary of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government, a suffragist who has fought valiantly for the Cause she represents, and who comes to our city with the desire that many of the people who are now indifferent to the "essential" justice of the demand for equal suffrage, will attend the lecture, and give her an opportunity to break down their indifference, and awaken in them an interest that shall stimulate investigation into this vital political, social and moral movement.

No one who wishes to keep in touch with the times in which we live can afford to miss this lecture, to which the public is most cordially invited. There will be an opportunity for discussion at the close of the address. There will also be a musical program.

The Observer

The city editor of a certain paper recently tested the intelligence of a bunch of applicants for jobs by giving them a bit of copy paper and requesting them to write thereon a definition of "News." Here are some of the answers turned in:

"News consists of events that are either very usual or very unusual."

"News is what the public will read and pay for without kicking."

"News is anything the public ought to know."

"News is a report of what happened, not of what ought to happen."

"News is anything a paper can print that's new, except (a) new stuff that might start a libel suit, (b) anything that might lose an advertiser, (c) anything that might alienate a bunch of subscribers."

This last epigram landed the job for its author. The city editor saw at once that this chap had worked on a paper before.

While Feb. 22 must forever be chiefly associated in the minds of patriotic Americans with the birthday of the Father of His Country, that momentous event it was not the only one of importance recorded under this date in the annals of history. Nevertheless it overshadows any of the other incidents and episodes with which the historian or the biographer has been called upon to deal.

Benjamin Ogle, a lifelong friend of Washington and governor of Maryland from 1798 to 1801, was the first to suggest the birthday of Washington as a holiday.

Washington, as is well known, treated his wife's two children and later her two grandchildren exactly as if they were his own. Very soon after his marriage he ordered from London "10 shillings" worth of toys, six little books for children beginning to read and one fashionably dressed baby to cost 10 shillings.

When the revolution had ended and he was on his way to Mount Vernon, impatient as he was to reach home, he tarried long enough in Philadelphia to buy gifts for his wife and her grandchildren.

Jackknives are among the useful little things that are disappearing from every day life. Once upon a time every boy had a jackknife, and was proud of it, and put it to a great deal of use. Now some boys carry penknives, or knives that are similar and less stout, than the good old fashioned jackknife, and so do a number of men. But it often happens that in a group of a dozen or so men and boys, gathered most anywhere not a single knife can be borrowed by a person who wants to cut a string, whittle a stick or open a package.

So many things are made by machinery nowadays and so many things come all ready for use, that people are not as dependent upon jackknives as they used to be. Time was when a great many household utensils were carved from wood with jackknives and boys did a great deal of the carving. Before metal and earthenware dishes were common people in New England commonly ate from wooden plates. They used wooden spoons, too. These articles were not purchased at the store, as products of big wood working mills, as are wooden ware of today, but were made by boys who used knives for their chief tools. Brooms were made by cutting brush in the woods, and binding it together. Drinking cups were made by hollowing out blocks of wood, or by cutting open gourd. Handles for tools, hop poles for fields, pegs for shoes, and a hundred and one articles were also made from wood at home and in the making of them a jackknife was a very useful tool.

Lighthouses along the coast may be made 10 times as effective, it is claimed, by equipping them with wireless apparatus. A series of interesting tests are being carried out by one of the wireless companies with a view to establishing these "blind lighthouses." The day may come when the lighthouses will even be without lights. A considerable proportion of the ocean steamers, especially the passenger carrying vessels, are now provided with wireless apparatus, and their number is rapidly increasing. A vessel so equipped could get its bearings from these stations even in the thickest fogs or most blinding storm. Since the wireless messages carry so much farther than the most brilliant lights, they could thus keep well out of the way of danger. A revolution is promised in the signal service with the installation of this proposed chain of wireless stations along the entire seaboard.

SAYS THE HERALD, DESERVES MUCH CREDIT.

The Kittery correspondent of Biddeford has the following today on the navy yard:

The good news from Washington in regard to the navy yard is of vital importance to all who love their native town. It is now stated authoritatively by both Senator J. H. Gallinger and Congressman C. A. Sulloway of New Hampshire that these two gentlemen have received a personal letter from President Taft, assuring them that the plan to abandon our fine yard has been dropped. It is said that Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer has shown much broad mindedness since he has looked into the matter thoroughly, and has acknowledged that it would be a folly to close such a valuable yard as ours. Residents of Kittery and Elliot and other towns, whose citizens work in the Kittery yard, owe a debt of gratitude to the senator and congressman named above for the fine work they have done in behalf of our yard. The Portsmouth Herald is also deserving of much credit.

RAILROAD NOTES

Women from the electrical department of the Boston and Maine railroad are engaged in renewing the lighting system at the round house and shops here.

Electric road men are looking for big scores on the bowling alleys when Manager Dowdell trots out his fast team to bang at the candle pins. The team will be the following: Leonard, Maxatella, U. G. Fay, E. A. Seavey, C. T. Varrell and Pedro De-Morio. They will be known as the "Wizards."

It required two of the largest baggage cars in the service of the Boston and Maine road to transport the scenery and effects of the "Baron Trenck" company to Concord.

The employees of the Boston and Maine and the Portsmouth Electric railway were paid today.

The Boston and Maine railroad will, within a few days, start the work of removing the brown-tail moth nests from the trees along the line. Formerly additional men were employed to help carry on this work, but it is thought that the regular section crews will attend to the matter this year.

BOWLING

George Woods Best Man in Arcade Roll Off--Sagamore Engine Co. Defeat Goodrich, No. 4, at the Elks--Green's Clerks Defeated Boardman & Norton's by One Pin.

A Very Close Game.

Green's bowling team defeated Boardman's clerks in a very fast game at the Elks alleys on Friday evening, winning the game by one pin. Green's won the first string by 13 pins and lost the second by six pins and the third by six more pins, leaving Green's clerks in the lead by one pin. Haglen was high man with 255 and Coleman was high for the winners.

Green's Clerks.	W. Mitchell,	88	88	83--259
Dunn,	Barney,	73	87	91--251

	Matthews,	88	78	74--240

Firemen's League.

The second game in the firemen's bowling league schedule was played on Friday evening, at the Elks' alleys and it was a hot game. Sagamore No. 1, and Goodrich 3 were the contestants, and both rolled record scores being under a thousand. Charles Kehoe, the veteran clerk of the Pours Company, created a new record for low score, with 94 for three string total, his strikes being 30, 29 and 35. Charlie had hard work keeping the balls in the building. Pendergast of the winners had the high string with 246, and Fogg was high for the losers. Sagamore took all three strings and won out by 91 pins.

The summary:

Sagmore, No. 1.	Goodrich, No. 3.
McCabe, 44 56 50--150	Fogg, 63 73 85--221

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Dodge of Salem, Mass., well known summer residents of this place, visited friends here on Friday.
Robert Carlson's motor boat dragged moorings during Thursday's gale but luckily drove on the flats, and was not injured.
J. Byron Phillips has returned from a visit to Boston.
The Good Luck Whist Club was pleasantly entertained by Mr. Perley Tobey on Wednesday. Prizes won were in the following order: First, Mrs. Ernest Tobey; second, Mrs. Wm. Symonds; third, Mrs. Fred Chase. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. E. Leroy Tobey on Wednesday afternoon.
Moses Blake of the U. S. Fish Commission Steamer Ocean View, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Annie Blake.
Fred Waldron has resumed his duties on the Atlantic Shore Line, after several days' illness.
Mrs. Frank Clarkson has been the recent guest of friends in North Berwick.
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brooks have returned from their wedding tour, and will reside with the former's parents.
The tug "Mitchell Davis" and the Wood Island Life Saving crew spent practically the whole of Thursday night in rescuing the coal barge "Baltic" from her predicament on the flats near Gooseberry Island. In the midst of the melee a barge of the P. N. Co., broke from her moorings behind Clark's Island, and gave the Davis all she could attend to before both crafts were finally safely secured at the coal wharf of T. Chester Cuts.
Arrived, Saturday, A. M., Steamer, Cleoseles F. Magn, from New York, with coal. Has one barge in tow.
Several from here attended the funeral of Mrs. John Randal at the Catholic Church, in Portsmouth Saturday forenoon.
Dethel services will be held at the Congregational church Saturday evening.

QUININE DOESN'T CURE BAD COLDS
Tells How to Break a Severe Cold and Grippe in a Few Hours
You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the Grippe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.
It is a positive fact that Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.
It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.
Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.
Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

ARCTIC INDIAN LIFE.
A Heroic Mother and Her Reward When Her Son Was Grown.
In "The Arctic Primitives" by Ernest Thompson Seton, a gruesome picture of Indian life is given in the following incident:
"One winter, forty or fifty years ago, a band of Algonquin Indians at Wuyulitika all starved to death except one squaw and her baby. She fled from the camp, carrying the child, thinking to find friends and help at Kipligon House. She got as far as a small lake near Deer lake and there discovered a cache, probably in a tree. This contained one small bone fishhook. She rigged up a line, but had no bait.
"The wailing of the baby spurred her to action. No bait, but she had a knife. A strip of flesh was quickly cut from her own leg, a hole made through the ice, and a fine jackfish was the food that was sent to this devoted mother. She divided it with the child, saving only enough for bait. She stayed there living on fish until spring, then safely rejoined her people.
"The boy grew up to be a strong man, but was cruel to his mother, leaving her finally to die of starvation. Anderson knew the woman. She showed him the scar where she cut the bait."

LOCAL DASHES
The "Flying Yankee," was forty minutes late in arriving here from Portland on Friday evening.
Manager Newton of the Kearsarge house expects to open his new dining room and cafe to the public next week.
Three naval prisoners in charge of four guards were brought here this morning from New York and taken to the navy yard to serve sentence imposed by court martial.
Those who witnessed the automobile accident on Wednesday evening whereby young Ellsworth Ward was injured say that Dr. Taylor was in no way to blame as the young lad was sliding and slid directly in front of the approaching automobile from an adjacent street.

would have been an ideal ride and trip.

The farmers were most industrious and cultivated well their land. Even the steep hillside showed careful cultivation. Tea orchards, rubber trees, camphor trees, cocoa nut trees, spice trees, nutmeg trees were here, besides the date palm, coconut palm and other palms.

The water buffalo, bullock, cart oxen (two kinds) and the milk cow, were the cattle. Then we saw deer, goat, sheep and, of course, the elephant, always small ones. Reaching the Hotel at Kandy at noon, we seated ourselves out on the veranda, waiting for the going to sound for lunch.

After the inner man was sufficiently cared for, we were driven through the botanical gardens, which consist of one hundred and fifty acres of bamboo of every kind from the vine up to seventy-five feet high, palm trees of every kind, great trees of rubber, of banyan, of every known kind, many of them wearing flowers of rich hues and striking color, that made us feel we were truly in fairy land.

Never had I dreamed of seeing such imposing mountains verdure covered rear their majestic heads above such a riot of tropical beauty and coloring so rich as to seem almost unbelievable. How gorgeous it all was! No wonder we had cases of mental indigestion the day following.

Then there were the spice, pepper, vanilla, cinnamon, cocoa and other trees of similar nature. Such a wealth of tropical beauty amid mountain grandeur I had not only never seen but had not thought it possible to see.

The sunset from the mountain peaks was most impressive but not so beautiful as ocean sunsets. We all parted from beautiful Kandy with keen regret, but deeply thankful we had seen such wonderful and gloriously beautiful things.

We took the train for Colombo, arriving there four hours later. The next day at 2 p. m., we left Colombo for Ceylon. After a pleasant voyage through the Indian Ocean, and the bay of Bengal we arrived at Diamond Harbor. Here we boarded a special train which was waiting for us to take us to Calcutta. Arriving there at 6 p. m., we were driven in a carriage to the Grand Hotel. The next four days were very pleasantly spent here; Calcutta seems more Indian than Bombay, whose English atmosphere was so decidedly marked. It is not nearly so clean nor attractive as Bombay but, nevertheless, it is exceedingly interesting.

Both on account of its historical past and its present as well as its future, which will undoubtedly be great. Its streets are always teeming with the motley crowd, made up of so many kinds and classes of people of distinct difference in dress, manners, and carriage.

Its many large buildings, and its wide expanse of Parks and beautiful gardens, all made up of a whole of unusual interest and attractiveness. The many monuments, the temples, the large commodious hotels, the number of large storerooms, kept our interest on the "gull river."

The beautiful Ganges is a real gem, so dazzling to the eye, both exterior and interior, with glass of all colors from different angles, giving one a most bewildering idea of its beauty and unusual attractiveness. The market is, I believe, the largest in the world, and offers all kinds of lines of goods in demand by every household. It covers an entire large block, and is crowded with small stalls or spaces where different merchants offer and sell their wares, flowers, fruits and vegetables, farm products, groceries, canned goods of any and all kinds, meats of all kinds, house and kitchen utensils, hardware, all sorts and kinds of wearing apparel, cane and umbrella stores, dry goods, shawl or lace shops, cheap jewelry shops, pictures and picture frame shops. Everything one could want or need was shown for sale at this wonderful market.

Runners or boys with baskets to be carried on the head when filled, waited at the curb or carriage entrance, and as the lady or head man or shopper for the family alighted from the vehicle the runners selected would follow and as each purchase was made, would take the parcel in his basket until it was full. Then another runner was called and on they went until the goods wanted were purchased, when the procession would return to the carriage, then a carrier (some of them carrying two large round baskets suspended from the pole which he carried on his shoulders) would pack up the goods and crew were seen running to the market, but everybody supposed ably keeping up with the carriage until the suburban home was reached.

The Ponton bridge across the Hoogly River was remarkable for the steady stream of colored humanity, both dressed and undressed, which thronged it from dawn till dark. The railway station in Calcutta seems to be the largest space covered in the world.

Its size was immense and the swarms of people who went on its lines daily in first, second and third class made us think of New York and Baltimore. Of course the great banyan tree always catches the interest of all visitors, no matter of what nationality. "Everybody goes to see and marvel at the 'Big tree' and to sit on its circumference of over half an acre."

Rangoon Burma.

Here the type has changed from India to one more like Chinese, and is really a cross between Chinese men and native women, all having a distinct mongol appearance. The city was alive with all sorts and kinds of people. The large bazaars of Rangoon contained merchants handling all types and classes of goods we noticed especially fine lines of silks and lace.

The old Pagoda with its dome of dull Chinese gold proved to be a most attractive place, having many small paradas with life sized figures of Buddha in all postures and shapes. This gold domed Pagoda was built several hundred years ago on the site of a very old Pagoda or Temple. The homes and bungalows of the English were so cozy and so cool appearing that most of us wished for chance to visit a week or more with them. The majority of the streets of Rangoon are wide, and the city is kept far more clean than many of our eastern cities. The people are jolly and generally attractive. The women being much more attractive than those we saw at other points.

The hospital here is very large and splendidly equipped being the best in all India. The hotels are very English and are cool and comfortable and the charge reasonable for very good service.

We lunched at Hotel Minto Mansio and were finely served, considering the fact that we were live time their capacity. The Rangoon oarsmen were the most expert we have found anywhere and get much speed out of their small boats.

After the short visit in this place we took the tender for the ship which was anchored off in the river waiting for us. After the medical inspection we said "Good-by" to Rangoon, and were on our way for our next stopping place, Singapore.

After a very pleasant passage through the streets of Malacca we reached the latter port. In our boyhood days, we had often heard of Singapore, but we never could fully understand its charms and the impression it made on sailors until now having seen, we can fully comprehend the whys and wherefores. We all was delighted with this lovely spot, the one most attractive of all we have yet visited. Its cosmopolitan, yet thoroughly kindly people, its cleanliness, its broad, clean and attractive streets, its thoroughly alive and up to date merchants, with their kindly, honest, and friendly treatment; its beautiful homes and gorgeously beautiful botanical gardens so full of everything interesting in tropical plants, flowers shrubs, and trees. I have never seen anything so beautiful in the way of growing things.

The people are very hospitable and courteous; many opening to us.

And, among other things, a ball was given to our ladies at a leading hotel. As our steamer docked, with the trolley car line within a block and richshaws always ready we were easily in command of the city, both day and night. So we went on sight-seeing trips galore. Enjoying everything we saw. Our dock was all of three miles from the heart of the city, yet our richshaw men covered the distance in twenty-five minutes.

The merchants, while of all sorts and the best business men we have found were mostly Mohammedan or Chinese. We are now ready to cast off the hook and move along toward Batavia.

When we were in the Java Sea just after crossing the Equator, Neptune came on board. Long before 2 o'clock the passengers began to flock to the after deck, when a stage and a tank had been erected. At the same time Neptune and his staff in motley garb, and varicolored paint, were being photographed on the forecastle deck. Behind them stood the ships band ready to lead the procession off.

Suddenly the passengers at the rail, heard a splash and the cry "Man overboard." A woman's face appeared in the wash of the ship, but there was no movement or expression, and the few who saw it did not take it seriously. The officers, however, were seen running to the forecastle, but everybody supposed them to be acting their little part in a comedy.

The lifeboat was lowered at within a few feet of the water, its crew standing at the oars. The great engines were reversing the propellers, and with ten minutes, the ship was going astern at full speed. The body was passed on the other side still motionless, but a few of us by this time, began to realize that an accident had occurred.

Mr. Jordan of Baltimore, a quiet, athletic young man, at once took the situation, slipped out of his coat and shoes and went overboard from the aft deck in a splendid dive, swimming with powerful strokes. He reached the body, held it with one hand while he swam for a life preserver with the other. In an incredibly short time the lifeboat reached them and brought them to the ship's side.

The poor woman, who is believed to have gone overboard in a moment of dispondency, although efforts were kept up for two hours, by a group of physicians. The body was embalmed and will be kept on board until we reach San Francisco.

Mr. Jordan suffered no bad effects from his heroic effort to rescue the unfortunate woman. His greatest danger was that of being caught by sharks, with which the Java Sea is infested.

When the ship dropped anchor at Batavia the next morning those voracious monsters cruised constantly around the ship in plain sight of the passengers on deck.

A purse of about $300 has been raised by passengers with which to present a suitable memorial to young Jordan and Capt. Dempwolf has announced that he will apply to the German Government for a medal of honor. The incident will also be reported to the Carnegie Hero Fund.

This island is a seeming paradise, where the varying shades of green, rests the eye and quiets the nerve. Rainfall is so frequent that the people confidently count on 240 rainy days out of the 365 and often score larger on the wet side, yet, with it average rainfall of 92 inches yearly, the Javanese seem not to waste a drop of water that would be so terrible precious to the Oklahomans of our country, where rainfall last year, in total, was only 18 inches.

The conservation of water in Java seemed wonderful to me. Each drop of hillside being plotted off in terraces, with gullies delivering the water to the next level of land, made possible rice fields on the hill to and hill sides, as well as in the upper and lower valleys.

I have witnessed its growth and harvesting in India, Egypt, Ceylon, Burma, Philippine Islands, China and Japan, but nowhere is rice grown so easily and so cheaply as in beautiful Java where water follows its natural downward course, instead of having to be pumped constantly to higher levels. It seemed so very strange to find continuous crops of rice growing on the hilltops and sides instead of only in the low levels.

The air of Java is so balmy and delightfully refreshing that one for gets being below the Equatorial line where torrid weather would naturally be expected.

For all things agriculturally and horticulturally, Java is a perpetual paradise. The chief products of Java are coffee, tea, pepper, spices, cocoa, apococa, castor beans, tobacco, sugar, rice, sugar-cane, all sorts of grasses many of the long fiber kind, all sorts of wood (timber) nutmegs, bamboo rubber, dates, coconuts, jack fruit bread fruit, and every sort or kind of shrubs, plants and flowers.

The cattle are water buffaloes, bullock, cart oxen, and milk cows. The horses are poorer size, very hardy and tough, goats, sheep, dogs, chickens, turkeys, and ducks, are plentiful everywhere. Besides all growing and growable things all over Java are the world famous botanical gardens at Buitenzorg, which are wonderful and would delight the Botanist and hold him chained.

We had only a couple of hours in this bewilderingly beautiful garden where all tropical plants grow in reckless profusion. The rainy season in Java is from October to April and the temperature along the coast towns average about 80 degrees Fahrenheit, but the hill or highest country seems like our April, May and June weather. We are about to leave Java for Manila after a pleasant voyage through the South China Sea.

We reached this place on December 23, 1911. For our thirteen years of occupancy there is much to show in every sense of the word, and when we consider England's occupancy of India for more than 250 years we feel like bragging that within the next twenty-five years we shall be able to show better results in Manila than England does in India. The young men and women of sense of citizenship.

Their attire and general deportment readily show that fact. We found an unusually bright set of young men employed in all the leading lines of industry everywhere we went, and giving excellent satisfaction to their employers.

Everywhere we went we saw bright capable and energetic young fellows doing their work properly and promptly, and with credit to themselves.

The soldier boys of ours who, a few years ago, were unkempt and unclad savages, now show up as examples of what can be done with the raw Philippine Material. We were royally treated by the people and we heartily appreciated it.

Many improvements are planned, and about to be put into effect at Manila, and five years hence will show a marked and appreciated improvement among them. A State University is soon to be built. The merchants of Manila took charge of our sightseeing plans and personally conducted us over the intensely interesting place. Many of our company were entertained in the homes of Americans, who now reside in Manila. Our people there seem decidedly pleased with their prospect and all say the work we have undertaken there will be immense magnitude, far beyond the average realization.

We all greatly regretted the impossibility of our visiting the large island. The Manila Elks sent a wireless the day before we reached there that they would meet us at the dock and entertain us, and they certainly kept their word.

We were taken in autos and driven to the their beautiful home, and after lunch, were on the go until eight, taking in everything. Sparring neither time nor expense to make our visit agreeable.

These islands are practically self supporting, our Government paying only for the army. We sailed December 24th, for Hongkong.

The weather in the China Sea was somewhat rough and we got a small part of a Monsoon which lasted about five hours. I saw a party in Yokohama, that was in the whole of it and they said they could hardly stay in their berths, but we fortunately escaped the severe part of it.

We arrived on time in the lovely harbor of Hongkong. How good it sounded, on near approach, and what delightful times we all had there! What jolly good fellows those Hongkong merchants are, and how delightful all our ladies were over the picturesque shops so full of exciting articles so dear to the feminine heart that China will soon become a Republic, they hoped to model their government by our, and asked for our kind and friendly co-operation toward bringing our countries closer together.

Some of the members of the committee escorted us to the steamer and, as we swung around in the current, the crowd on the dock shouted "Good-by" and waved good luck at us, while the band played patriotic America, and, so, instead of expecting trouble, we met the warmest, friendliest welcome the most enthusiastic welcome, we have found.

We left Hongkong for Magaki Japan, arriving there January 1, 1912.

A True Friend

Would not give you a drug in your food.

But many persons, of their own accord, drink coffee or tea day after day—ignoring the fact that there is a drug, caffeine, in every cup.

True, you may be able to "stand it" for a time, but the drug is there, and sooner or later is pretty sure to show in some annoying ailment.

There can be no relief until the cause is removed.

Simply leaving off coffee and tea will work wonders, but it is much easier if you shift to well-made

Here we coaled ship, putting on board 4500 tons. The work was done by men, women and boys, passing it up in baskets on ladders made by them of bamboo. It was really a novelty to see this done.

We left this place for Kobo, passing through the Inland Sea and coming to an anchor in the harbor, January 5, 1912. We visited Kioto which is fifty miles by rail, also Nara, Tokyo and Yokohama until January 11th, when we steamed out of this latter place for Honolulu. The weather disagreeable during our stop in Japan being rainy, chilly and colder during the latter part of our visit.

The abrupt, high hills were made beautiful by the universal landscape gardening, even the high allsides were in general cultivation. Every foot of tillable soil is utilized in fair Japan. Nothing whatever is wasted, even small tree boughs and little twigs are gathered up, packed into hamper of coarse matting and sold for fuel. Each bit of land, every little that covered but, the home of the poorest farm laborer, is made to look cozy, comfortable and attractive.

Japan customs demand that decorations be generally used at New Years. So each gate entrance, door and home was decorated in all possible ways. The general use of rice straw in single strands, festoons and plants, was always to be noted and at each entrance, paper prayers were attached to these rice straw decorations, petitioning the gods for a prosperous year with more abundant harvests.

Where flowers were to be had they were used, but January is neither the blossom nor flower month. We saw but few, and they generally were in some florist's window.

The Japanese live very simply and frugally—never wasting anything. They are quick to learn and follow up every helpful advantage and, as a result, are successful in their undertakings. The women are wonderfully clean both in person and in house-keeping their homes always being models of tidy cleanliness, and how very clean they keep both babies and children, by whom they are literally surrounded; everywhere we went were crowds of clean, bright, rosy and cheerful children, who greeted us with waving hands "Chao and Bansaif" (Meaning Good Morning).

All spontaneous, showing that the Japanese teach their children to be kind, polite and agreeable to any and all American visitors to Japan. Boys do the work men do in our country. Men, and boys as well, draw two wheeled carts loaded as much as we would class a light two horse load.

Men and boys are the universal carriers as exceedingly few horses, oxen or oxen are used. Father also work in Japan. Richshaw are the universal carriages in Japan. These are two wheeled one seated vehicles with two side springs, and top which can be turned back. Most of them are made in this country, and drawn by a Japanese coolie, who can trot at about eight miles an hour and keep it up all day. The coolies are very dependable and reliable, and often are of great help to the tourist, as they understand the simple form of many languages. The coolies earn from seventy-five cents to ten cents per day, and support an average family on $15.00 per month.

Carpenters earn about sixty cents, blacksmiths, about 75 per cent cooper, brass and bronze workers get from 80 cents to $1 a day.

Farm laborers are paid from $12 to $15 per month, cooks get $15 nurses $7 to $10. There are so many people in Japan that wages seem at starvation point, but they live largely on vegetables and rice, and so simple that their earnings are sufficient. We have never seen such enthusiastic school children. All are eagerly anxious to learn, and it is astonishing how quickly they do learn every lesson.

A course of English is taught in all public schools, so that we were able to talk to many bright and promising boys. Everywhere we went in Japan we found someone who could speak English. Everybody, everywhere, seemed anxious to do us a favor of some kind.

In the Capital City of Tokyo we were greatly interested in the schools museums and such things. In the Imperial war museum we saw history fully illustrated, each room pictorially telling its own full tale. Life size paintings of commanders. Well war panels of battle scenes, battered guns and other implements of war. Shot and shell ridden tunnels of warships, disabled guns and other ship parts. Photos of maimed and wounded both after the battle and then after they had been fitted with new parts. Such as arms, legs, etc. I have never seen anything that so completely illustrated the horrors of warfare, which our General Sherman said "Is Hell."

How thoroughly we all enjoyed Hongkong will be our theme for years to come. Crowded so closely between sea and mountain, no picturesque from ship's deck or from mountain summit. Truly it was a joy to behold, beautiful by day, and wonderfully grand and alluring by night.

From ship's deck at night, the shore lights brightly shown, and the lights of streets and houses as they rose up the mountain side, and seemed finally to merge the lines of stars from the three or four points on Victoria Peak, just above the city. On clear mornings the view was rarely beautiful. So grand and unusual as to stir enthusiasm in every mind.

England's hold upon the city for nearly 100 years is most strongly marked and made us feel at home. The merchants are unusually bright and clean, and very accommodating, and their prices lower than we found elsewhere. Our people felt free and at home to come and go as they pleased.

The Chinese are steady, faithful workers, honest and dependable. We saw all classes of handicraft being turned out by both men and boys. The rice grinder, the carpenter, the brick and stone mason, the wood carver, the brush maker, the furniture maker, the metal worker in all lines, the copper and brass worker, the gold and silver smith. The artificers of all sorts, and artisans of all kinds were busy at work. Boys and women toiled as burden bearers carrying great loads of timber, of stone, of earth for a long distance. All these seemed to be doing their work patiently and properly. The boats or "Sampan" were handled mostly by women. Many of them living their whole lives on these boats, using both sails and oars. We saw many women holding babies on one arm and rowing with the other.

Before I go any further I want to write a little on our visit to Canton. At Manila we heard queer tales of trouble exciting and expected at Canton, but when we went to this place we found a most peaceable people, full of kindly keen curiosity, but without any native or ill feeling whatever, and developing into a warm welcome which was shown wherever we went, quickly reasoning to every act of kindly politeness on our part, every how, every salute, or smile was at once returned with interest throughout the crowded streets many of them were already packed before our long line of two hundred and ten Sedan chairs threaded its way, through, making at times a jam of the other people's on the street.

Even though jostled and shoved aside by our chair bearers, the crowd proved kindly. We were taken in parties of ten seated in Sedan chairs, carried by two, three or four bearers, owing to the weight of the person in each chair and rapidly trotted through the streets, narrow alleys, and over high bridges, past the small shops where merchants were busy selling their wares.

Then there were blacksmiths, tin and copper smiths, wood carvers, brush makers, gold and silver smiths, an every sort of work, done there in little shops opening up in narrow crooked alleys and streets.

It was wonderful to see how busy these packed in people were; to note the many boys of eight, ten and twelve doing men's work.

Our party was delighted with Canton and its people; and was immensely pleased to be invited to the Governor General's palace for a collation, just before sailing for Hongkong. The committee from the society of the Republic received us (about seventy-five of them), most impressively at the palace gate, while a full band and a regiment of soldiers were lined up to do us honor.

They had laid covers for 500, thinking we all would come at one time, instead of in three parties. Ten in beautiful oval cups. Wines of many kinds and fruit cake, and such things were served.

Speeches of welcome in both English and Chinese were made and everything possible done for our pleasure and comfort, assuring us that our country's friendship and kindness was greatly appreciated by the whole Chinese Empire, and now

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today. You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, Spot-Remedy remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4724 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich. and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this, but I send it entirely free.

Such is the attitude of the Japs, both people and Prince that war between Japan and our country is an impossibility. The people are taught to love Americans. We find much to learn from the Japs, and they need us. So we will work, one helping the other, to our mutual benefit.

The railroads are owned and operated by the Government, and are rock ballasted and well equipped in every way. The hotels frequently by foreigners are exceptionally good, giving as a rule more perfect service than any hotels we have visited during this cruise. We were all highly pleased with Japan and its people.

Leaving Yokohama at 4 p. m., Sunday, January 14, 1912, we steamed out on the broad North Pacific Ocean and found high winds with the incedental Heavy Seas. Some days the wind whistled through our rigging, ranging all the way from fifty to seventy-five miles an hour. Table racks went into commotion and heavy clothing and wraps were demanded, a few skipped a meal or two, but there were no real cases of seasickness. Most of our people rather enjoyed the blow and rough weather. On Wednesday about 5 p. m., a big sea came over our bow completely covering the bridge.

It was a beautiful and well worth the price of a good ducking. Each day as we voyaged eastward a little time was gained, which finally amounted to a whole day, which was extra. So, as Saturday is always a popular day we decided to have two Saturdays, and bit upon the 20th of January.

So these Saturdays were filled with great doings, among them we had deck sports of all kinds and volunteers of ladies and gentlemen filled out all the different games and gave everybody an outing on the deck. The weather contributed a fine day. So we had much to remember because of two Saturdays in one week.

Before reaching Honolulu, wireless messages were received from the board of Trade, the Elks and the Shriners of Honolulu, inviting all the Cleveland passengers to be their guests during the first day's visit. The Board of Trade had trolley cars waiting and sent our folks away to see the sights of beautiful Honolulu as fast as they came down the gangway.

The Shriners and the Elks took guides in waiting autos and did everything possible for their entertainment, comfort and pleasure. At breakfast, the morning we arrived, the young ladies had brought on the loveliest flowers, and soon had placed a wreath around each passenger's neck.

Everybody was happy and proud of both the flowers and the beautiful sentiment that inspired so appropriate a gift. We wore these flowers all day and wished we could keep them fresh for home taking.

The climate of Honolulu is delightful and varies but little the year around. There are beautiful trees, and plants, and flowers galore, and such comfortable luxuries where ever we went, set amid lovely flowers, multi colored plants, beautiful trees, and glorious vines.

How very happy these people must be with everything to give them pleasure. The view from the high hill, commanding both city and harbor was grand. We had only two days there but we needed two weeks to fully enjoy and see all of Honolulu and near by islands. We enjoyed the native music very much. The surf bathing was great and the surf boat racing was grand. Even better than coasting on the snow. Everybody enjoyed bathing and beautiful Honolulu and each one of us wants to return for a long stay.

Since leaving Honolulu, we have had good weather except slight rains. Everybody and his wife are the blood busy packing, and those who come on board in New York with one trunk now claim two, three and even as many as four.

Only a day or two remains of our wonderfully happy record breaking cruise, where we all suffered from both mental and physical indigestion.

We arrived in San Francisco, February 1, 1912 and were invited by the Panama Pacific Exposition Company to an automobile ride, also to visit the different points of interest, including the Exhibition grounds, Golden Gate Park, the Presidio, and the city generally. We were charmed with San Francisco and its lovely people, an wish we might continue our stay here indefinitely, but we shall soon scatter to our various homes in thirty seven different states bringing to an end our wonderful Cruise Around the World.

JUST TRY A TEN CENT BOX OF CASCARETS

Insures you for months against a Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passage through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage of alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

WRECKING CREW IS KEPT BUSY

The local wrecking crew were a busy bunch Friday and Captain Ed. Weeks had his hands full. They were called away from here early Friday to Amesbury where there was a car off the track. From there they were sent to North Beverly where there was more trouble, and on finishing that job were sent to Salem to put a car of ice on the track. While there a big compound engine went off and they were set at work on that and before they finished their sixteen hours were up and a train crew from Boston relieved them. After the regulation hours lay off they will finish their Salem job and before they come home they will have to stop at North Hampton and put two cars on the tracks there.

Feel languid, weak, run-down? Headache? Stomach "off"? Just a plain case of "lazy" liver. Burdock Blood Bitters tones, liver, and stomach, promotes digestion, purifies the blood.

P. H. S. Alumni Defeat Seniors in Fast Game at Y. M. C. A. Gymn--Sophomores Whitewash Freshmen.

At the inter-class series at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Friday afternoon there were two games played. The Alumni defeated the seniors by a score of 27 to 24. The Sophomore defeated the 1911 team 53 to 0 in a decidedly one-sided game.

The Alumni-Seniors game was very fast and it was won in the last few minutes by some very fast work. Laighton and Hodgkins played a very fast game and for the seniors Jenkins and Leslie Leavitt played well.

EXETER LETTER

Many Interesting Items from the Academy Town.

The 8:45 o'clock car from Portsmouth electric line, left the rails, munched electric line, left the rails, Friday morning near Craig's greenhouse in Stratham, owing to the ice on the rails.

The car was going at a fair rate of speed and plowed up the highway for a distance of about ten feet before it came to a standstill. There was a large number on board, but nobody was hurt and the only inconvenience was the delay.

The funeral service of Mrs. Catharine C. Broderick was held Friday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart at Newfields. It was conducted by the pastor the Rev. Herbert Hennon. The body was placed in the receiving tomb here.

Judge Henry A. Shute, the well-known humorous author, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Christian fraternity at Phillips-Exeter academy Sunday evening. Prof. F. W. Cushman of the academy will conduct the afternoon services at the West End hall.

The First Parish Men's club of the First church will entertain the First Parish club at the church parlors, Monday evening. The Rev. Edgar Parke of West Newton will give an address on "Boston, the City of the Pilgrims."

Harry Vaughan, formerly of Yale, William T. Shannon of Pittsburgh, Pa., and "Jake" H. E. Smith, formerly of Dartmouth, were a trio of former Phillips-Exeter athletes who spent Washington's birthday here. As were also I. D. MacKenzie of Princeton, "Minnie" Russell B. Frye of Harvard, and N. M. "Pie" Way of Norwich, all athletes of last year's class.

Francis E. Willard memorial day will be observed by the Exeter Women's Christian Temperance union, Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Wilbur A. Littlefield, on Ash street.

The Rev. George H. Driver, pastor of the First church, has spent the past two weeks at his former home in Wakefield, Mass., where his mother has been seriously ill with double pneumonia.

J. Fisher was held yesterday morning at the First church, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. George H. Driver. The bearers were Principal H. P. Amen and Professors Seltick, Rogers, Segerblom and Fiske, all Phillips academy faculty members. Mrs. Fisher was the wife of Henry J. Fisher, engineer at the academy.

Mrs. Annie S. Ross and Mrs. Howard G. Lane of Hampton were in attendance at the Congregational Club which convened in this city on Washington's Birthday.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO EMPLOYEES AT THE NAVY YARD

Arrest at Boston.

Richard F. Locke, a marine on the U. S. S. Utah, was arrested by the Boston police at the Charlestown navy yard on Friday, and turned over to a sheriff from Arkansas. He was wanted for the theft of $600 from the Corner Stone Mercantile Company.

Locke was a trusted employee of the Jefferson county firm. Some time in March of 1910 he disappeared with about $600. Soon after it was found he had enlisted.

It Was His Birthday.

Paymaster's clerk William Craig entertained a party of friends at his home on Lovell street on Friday evening, the occasion being another anniversary of his birth. Whist and refreshments were enjoyed by the guests.

Vessel Movements.

Arrived, Neptune at Guantanamo, Castine D-2, D-3 at Norfolk, Cincinnati and Nausau at Shanghai, E-1, E-2 and Gwin at Newport, Nero at Tiburon.

Sailed, Prairie, from New Orleans for Hampton Roads.

Chief of Bureau Coming.

Civil Engineer Homer R. Stanford recently appointed chief of bureau of yards and docks is expected to visit this yard some day next week.

To Extend the Water Lines.

The plan of extending the water lines of the yard to the new hospital has been approved by the bureau and work on the same will begin as soon as possible. For the week the sum of $3400 has been allowed. This will include a main line to the hospital district and service pipes to the auxiliary building, which means quite a lot of work for local labor.

Acting Captain of Watch.

Watchman Daniel Lydston of Kittery is acting captain of the watch in place of captain J. C. Rowe who was injured on Thursday.

To Make Ditty Boxes.

Seventy thousand feet of dressed country pine, ten thousand feet of birch, beech and maple have arrived at the yard and will be used in the manufacture of 20,000 ditty boxes.

Change Among Officers.

Lieut. Scudder Klyce, retired, when discharged treatment Naval Hospital, Annapolis, Md., to home.

Machinist F. R. Barner, retired, when discharged treatment Naval Hospital, Mare Island, Cal., to home.

Machinist F. R. King, from Philadelphia to Asiatic station.

EDISONIAN THEATER.

Freeman's Hall.

Sensational Toe Dancer Pleases. The first performance of the week end bill at the Edisonian Theatre was played to a full house last night.

The splendid cards which Manager Sidney has been securing for the popular vaudeville house have been productive of results and Edisonian people have come to realize that they are receiving as good performances as appear in Metropolitan playhouses.

Martin Howard, one of the greatest male toe dancers on the boards today, throws all his energetic soul into the performance of some novel steps, the like of which has never been seen in Portsmouth. "Howard" is a master of art in his own way. His manipulation of his feet in silent shoes is a thing to be long remembered by the spectators and differs from the majority of imitators, in that he does not rely on a prodigious amount of noise to make his turn a unique one. In fact he comes on the stage dancing with scarcely a sound to be heard, and goes off in the same quiet manner. He is probably the best dancer the theatre has ever seen.

James and Linden, right off Keith's circuit, presenting, "Johnny Jones from Pumpville, comedy singing and talking both possess wonderful voices, Miss James reaching high 'D' Mr. Linden 'B' flat. A star act, a roar in every line.

Beautiful illustrated songs, "My Country has First Call" and "I've Got You Steve."

Don't miss seeing the "101 Ranch" February 29th.

Special Quartet singing with the dancing for Friday and Saturday. For Friday and Saturday the management has secured a strong picture program to conform with the classy vaudeville.

CLAUDE G. SIDNEY, Manager.

The Herald Hears

That Concord wants more police.

That the adjutant general has issued orders for inspection of the state militia.

That the bowling game made lots of fun at the Elk's alley on Friday night.

That there seems to be a whole sale change in telephone numbers about the city.

That the ladies say they do not believe the big hat will be put away for the turban.

That the new bank building is now expected to be open to the public in April.

That the Portsmouth Catholic Union are planning on a strong team for the Sunset League.

That Mayor Hall of Dover is paying the highway department of that city with personal money.

That police officers Shannon and Murphy have exchanged beats.

That two young women who have been in a lively wrangle of their wearing apparel furnished the clinch in the police station today.

That one accused the other of taking her dress goods and ordered her arrest on a warrant.

That an hour of argument and a close inspection of the dress suit case of the one accused they forgot their troubles and the warrant was called off.

That the sporting delegation at Portsmouth Brewing Company who are burning up the bowling alleys with speed and flashing a lot of money on the game.

That delegation from the Speed Club is said to have made a hit at Dover on Friday night.

Work in some of the departments at the navy yard is not what it should be.

What the B. & M. will give Portsmouth for summer train service this year.

The expert on Junk who is at the navy yard is said to be stirring things up just a bit.

OBSEQUIES.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Randall wife of John W. Randall was held this forenoon at 10 o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception where there was a large gathering of relatives and friends.

who came to pay the last tributes of respect the living can render the dead. Rev. Father E. J. Walsh, P. M., offered high mass of requiem for the soul of the deceased, the musical portion of which was rendered by the senior choir. The floral offerings were many silently testifying the love and esteem held by sorrowing friends; the good woman loved so much in life. Interment was in Proprietor's Cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Patrick McGill of Dover. The following were the pallbearers: Patrick and James Rossiter, James and Henry Powers.

Christ Church.

There will be special Lenten services on Sunday evenings during Lent, with special sermons by the Rector. The subject on Sunday evening will be "The Divine Lord."

DISTRICT MEETING HELD.

Grand Chancellor Frank W. Knight of the New Hampshire Knights of Pythias attended the district meeting held with Harmony Lodge at Farmington on Friday evening. There was a large attendance of the lodges in that district, a special train being run from mill-ton.

ALL FEATURE PICTURES.

The new pictures shown at Music hall Friday were exceptionally good. They were "Melody of Love," "A Visit to the Dome of Milan Cathedral," "Back to the Kitchen," "Her Heart's Refuge" and "Under Burning Skies." The titles show to some extent the variety of the pictures shown love scenes, sad and cheerful; grand views of the Dome of Milan Cathedral; impressive illustrations of the girl who tired of home life and the work of the kitchen, but was soon glad to return; another reel showed the final loyalty of a discarded lover after a series of mishaps, difficulties and differences.

Both vaudeville acts were well received and caused fully as much merriment as on the previous evening.

Miss Ethel Wood sang "I've Got You Steve," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." The same bill will be presented this evening.
